

Television programming has far too much violent and sexually explicit content for children. After attempting for many months to restrict the impact of such programming and commercials on my children, I was forced to discontinue all cable and network programming from coming into our home. I still cannot control what is seen while they are at neighbors or friends homes and I am very concerned that broadcast decency standards have fallen in the toilet. At the very least that is where most of todays programming belongs!